

Code of Conduct

CCSC 2024 is an international forum for open and honest scientific discussion in a safe and inclusive atmosphere. Unprofessional and illegal behaviour, harassment, and discrimination including but not limited to listed below will not be tolerated:

- Offensive verbal comments and inappropriate or demeaning language, aggressive behaviour of any kind, unwanted physical contact.
- Harassment via the use of epithets, slurs, derogatory jokes or comments; threatening, intimidating, or hostile acts; denigrating written or graphic materials.
- Sexual harassment including unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favours, sexual assault, and other unwelcome verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.
- Discrimination against an individual or a group based on race, colour, ethnicity, national origin, ancestry, gender, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, disability, marital status, or political ideology.
- Scientific research misconduct via recording or photographing and publicly distributing another individual's presentation (e.g., lecture slides, poster, demo) without their explicit permission, disrupting another individual's presentation, etc.

If you experience or witness unprofessional or offensive behaviour, please report it immediately to the conference organisers (chemcompspace@gmail.com). All reports will remain confidential.

Violations of this code of conduct may result in the interruption of the presentation, denial of further access to the conference venue and activities, and prohibition on the attendance of future meetings.
